

Contents

Introduction	ix
The Man of Steel In the beginning: Reagan, John Steel, and the Review.	3
Take Five Review editor Dinesh D'Souza says "time out."	16
The First Case A Review founder lands in kangaroo court.	18
No Jive The bad language of affirmative action.	30
Once Bitten A Review opponent breaks the skin.	35
Bill Cole A music professor strikes a sour note.	43
An Inside Look Sex, lies, and audiotape.	59
The Indian Wars The meaning of a symbol.	71
Divestment The beautification of the Green before Winter Carnival.	88
Bill Cole Strikes Back A music professor tries to break the Review editorship.	122
Sex Ed Our bodies, ourselves, our liberal pieties.	166
The First Stone Jeffrey Hart sues the College over a Hitler quote.	176
Liberal Fascism Gestapo tactics and a Review column.	180
Sabotage Hate upon hate in Dartmouth's darkest hour.	192

The Freedman Legacy
All the president's men.	226
The Freedom of Assembly
Greek life, the "Student Life Initiative," and liberty.	240
Deviance on Tap
The Big Green goes blue.	268
God & Man at Dartmouth
What would Buckley do?	282
Rebel Yell
Conservative vindication at Dartmouth.	298
<hr/> Seven specially commissioned essays on twenty-five years of The Dartmouth Review
Dartmouth's J-School
by Jeffrey Hart	315
Lessons from Jeffrey Hart
by Peter Robinson	320
The Early Days
by Dinesh D'Souza	323
The Review & the Olin Foundation
by James Piereson	328
Delhi, Deliverance & Dartmouth
by Harmeet Dhillon	334
Shut Up, I Explained
by Joseph Rago	337
The Review Today
by Michael Ellis	339
<hr/>
Contributors	343
Acknowledgments	347
Index	349