THE WHOLE TRUTH ABOUT AMERICA'S TOP COLLEGES

Political indoctrination, co-ed bathrooms, speech codes, weak academics, sky-high tuitions . . . *Here's the real story for students and parents

Two hundred thousand dollars.

That's what it can cost a student to get through four years of college. But what exactly are students—and their parents—getting for their money these days?

That's the key question for the millions of Americans embarking on the overwhelming college admissions process this summer. CHOOSING THE RIGHT COLLEGE 2010-11 (ISI Books, July 15, 2009) is the indispensable resource for them. As syndicated columnist Thomas Sowell says, it is "by far the best college guide in America."

Get the whole story—good and bad—on 140 leading colleges and universities from John Zmirak, the editor of this completely revised and updated edition of the most in-depth, independently researched, and trusted college guide on the market. Zmirak and CHOOSING THE RIGHT COLLEGE reveal:

- The truth about the most overpriced colleges—and the great values you don't know about
- The untold story about elite institutions and outstanding lesser-known schools
- Exclusive information on campus politics and intellectual freedom—including ISI's unique "light" system: GREEN, YELLOW, or RED
- Which schools have vital intellectual atmospheres, safe campuses, and wholesome living arrangements—and which ones don't
- Crucial statistics you won't get anywhere else
- Invaluable advice on departments, professors, and courses to seek out—and to avoid entirely
