
FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

www.isi.org

Contact: Carol Houseal
(302) 524-6167
media@isi.org

ANGELO M. CODEVILLA, AUTHOR OF ADVICE TO WAR
PRESIDENTS, WINNER OF THE ISI 2010 HENRY
PAOLUCCI/WALTER BAGEHOT BOOK AWARD

Wilmington, DE—September 15, 2010—The Intercollegiate Studies Institute (ISI), a national educational organization headquartered in Wilmington, Delaware, is pleased to announce that Angelo M. Codevilla is the recipient of the prestigious 2010 Henry Paolucci/Walter Bagehot Book Award, for his book Advice to War Presidents: A Remedial Course in Statecraft (Basic Books). Professor Codevilla will accept the award and give a public lecture on Tuesday, October 12, 2010 at 5:30 p.m. at the Greenville Country Club, 201 Owls Nest Road, Wilmington, Delaware. A light reception will follow.

Angelo Codevilla is professor emeritus of international relations at Boston University and has taught political theory and international relations at Princeton and Georgetown. A former Foreign Service officer, he is the author of the book winner Advice to War Presidents, as well as The Character of Nations, a translation of Machiavelli's The Prince, and other books.

Also receiving special recognition as finalists for the Henry Paolucci/Walter Bagehot Award, are the following:

- Persian Dreams: Moscow and Tehran Since the Fall of the Shah (Potomac Books) by John W. Parker
- The Supreme Court and the American Elite, 1789 - 2008 (Harvard University Press) by Lucas A. Powe, Jr.
- The Conservatives: Ideas and Personalities Throughout American History (Yale University Press) by Patrick Allitt Ph.D.

This prestigious award was first launched by the Walter Bagehot Research Council, an organization founded by Professor Henry Paolucci in the late sixties, and beginning in 2004, the annual award has been presented by ISI. The award recognizes and advances the scholarly and journalistic achievements of Henry Paolucci and Walter Bagehot by honoring each year one book that embodies the humane and liberal spirit of these two men of letters. Books from a range of humanistic disciplines—including but not limited to American foreign policy, political science (especially political philosophy), higher education in the United States, English literature and comparative literature (nonfiction only), intellectual history, the future of the humanities, history, philosophy, and the history of science—are eligible for selection.

Founded in 1953, ISI works “to educate for liberty”—to help further in successive generations of college students an appreciation of the economic, political, and moral principles that sustain a free and humane society. For more information on ISI, or the book award, please visit www.isi.org or contact Carol Houseal at (302) 524-6167 or media@isi.org.